

BAG in a green & black

I really like green color this year.

I enriched my wardrobe with a few green pieces of clothing and over time I discovered that I absolutely need a bag in a green shade for everyday wear.

Coincidentally, I needed to go to the haberdashery and saw green wool, the same shade as the sweater I was wearing. I reached for two balls and the same ball in black.

And since I haven't photographed the production of a handbag for a long time, I decided to not only photograph the production, but also record a video about it, so you can see how easy you can create a design bag exactly according to your wishes. And what's more, with minimal costs and in a few evenings while watching your favorite TV series.

Material inventory

Looped surfaces and belt edges: wider, multi-strand wool in green and black

Locking medium: cotton string in black

Lining: black cotton fabric

Ear: wooden, black

Bottom: reinforced

TIPS FOR IMPROVEMENT

Contrasting colors go well with this pattern. You don't have to use just a wool. I think you can achieve a very beautiful effect by using fine fabric stripes.

You can also use a larger canvas, eg size #3,75. This will make the bag a little bigger.
